An Ordinance of the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament.

THE Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament, Taking into their serious considerations the heavy pressures and calamities which now lye upon this Kingdom by this unnaturall warre raised against the Parliament; And that notwithstanding all their faithfull and uncessant Endeavours, for the preserving of His Majesty, and the whole Kingdom from the mischievous and restless designs of Papists and ill-affected persons (whose aym is the extirpation of our Religion, Laws, and Liberties.) Yet their Councells and practises are still so prevalent with His Majesty, and the hearts of many people so misled and beguiled by their false pretences and insinuations, that nothing can be expected; but ruine and desolation, unlesse God in mercy prevent it, and incline His Majesties heart to the faithfull advice of His great Councell of Parliament; which hath ever been, and is (under God) the chief support of His Royall Dignity, and the security of all that we have or can enjoy. And for that it is most agreeable to common
